PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

fter 23 years at the helm of Lynn University, and at the gracious invitation of our Board of Trustees, Helen and I recently enjoyed a brief sabbatical that included a cruise to South America with trustees, Gene and Christine Lynn. It was a wonderful three weeks—filled with interesting ports of call, beautiful vistas, and a myriad of delightful people, including parents of current students and friends of the University.

As we traveled through Brazil, Argentina and other stops along the way, we could not help but reflect upon our own particular blessings. With so many countries in economic crisis, struggling with high inflation and a scarcity of basic needs, as well as political differences that result in divisiveness and conflict, it was a profound experience for both Helen and me to reaffirm our good fortune in being associated with a dynamic university community that promotes excellent academic programs, personal growth, and individual responsibility. We recognize that if we are to be a university in the truest sense of the word, we must be responsive not only to the community and region in which we reside, but to the world beyond.

Indeed, Lynn University's focus has expanded dramatically in the last few years to reflect a growing emphasis on a global education—an education that assists young people in understanding, working, and living in an environment that crosses many barriers, including differences in language, political and economic systems, as well as national customs and mores. As a university, our mission must always be to expand our vision and create bridges that enable Lynn's graduates to be positive contributors to the world which we all share.

It has often been said that as wonderful as it is to take a short vacation, it is even more wonderful to come home. Helen and I are deeply grateful for the wonderful experiences of the last month and will remember for the rest of our lives the special people and exciting places that we visited. But when all is said and done, it is the people that we work with every day who share the University's mission and help to make it a reality that are the most special after all. It's great to be home! ♦

LYNN IS MOVING ON UP ... TO THE BIG TIME

ince it began competition in intercollegiate athletics, Lynn University has been one of the powers in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

So it was logical that Lynn would take the next step — a move up to the more prestigious Division II of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

That move became reality Monday, January 10th, when Lynn was officially voted into the NCAA at the NCAA's annual meeting in San Antonio, Texas.

President Donald E. Ross was pleased. "Lynn University has enjoyed a long and beneficial relationship as a member school of the NAIA," said Dr. Ross. "Lynn is looking forward to joining Division II of the NCAA, and the opportunity it affords our student-athletes to participate at this level of intercollegiate competition."

LU's Vice President for Administration and Student Services, Gregory Malfitano, and Director of Athletics, Dick Young, represented Lynn at the NCAA meeting. "We've been working towards this goal since July," said Young. "The NCAA had to approve our application for three waivers. At the time we applied, we did not have women's basketball, so we did not meet the requirement of having four women's sports. That was addressed this year, with the addition of women's basketball. Our scholarship allotment in men's soccer exceeded the NCAA maximum, but that is being taken care of, through graduation and attrition. And we did not have the necessary number of games in men's basketball scheduled against NCAA Division I or Division II teams, but that will be taken care of in 1994-95."

The next step could see Lynn lose its independent status. "Logically, the next step is a conference affiliation," Young said. "We'd like to explore the possibility of affiliating with a Division II conference." ♦

DE HOERNLE SPORTS AND CULTURAL CENTER DEDICATED

Several hundred friends and community leaders were on hand to honor the Count and Countess de Hoernle and to dedicate the recently completed Count and Countess de Hoernle Sports and Cultural Center. The 35,000 square foot facility is the newest building on campus and an integral part of the University's Campus Master Plan. Housing two practice courts and one regulation size court, the Center is home to Lynn University's men's and women's basketball teams who are enjoying an impressive season to date. ♦

LYNNNS ESTABLISH SCHOOL OF NURSING AND HEALTH SCIENCES

hrough the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lynn, the University will introduce a Bachelor of Science in Nursing program for the Fall 1994 semester. "We are proud to make this vision a reality and know this program will benefit the nursing and medical profession. We are pleased to participate in this program," said Christine Lynn in making the contribution.

Over the past year, Lynn University surveyed nurses and nursing administrators at area hospitals and followed up with in-depth focus group interviews. The studies revealed the need for an academically challenging program for experienced registered nurses. Designed solely for registered nurses who have earned either an associate degree or a diploma in nursing, the program will permit them to further their education while continuing to work.

The BSN will allow nurses to advance their careers, assume greater responsibilities, and possibly command higher salaries. The course schedule will be flexible with classes in the evenings and on Saturdays. The curriculum also will take into account the changing health care industry, systems of service delivery and other contemporary issues.

"We are deeply grateful to the Lynns for their continued support and encouragement. Due to their generosity in many areas, we are able to forge ahead and respond positively to the ever-changing world of higher education," said President Ross in making the announcement. ♦

EXCALIBUR EXTRAVAGANZA

As part of Lynn University's "Around the World at Lynn," the Excalibur Society in conjunction with Saks Fifth Avenue presented the "Excalibur Extravaganza — an international bazaar." Guests were invited to browse and shop at booths set up by top designers. Designers showcased were Pamela Dennis, Donna Karan, Lee Wolfe, Judith Leiber, Lana of London, and Ccori. Saks presented informal modeling from their trunk show and also displayed many lovely ensembles.

Carrying the international theme through lunch, delicious dishes from Greece, Italy, Sweden, China, and Germany were served. Following lunch the guests were free to browse and shop at their leisure.

There were several raffle prizes, the grand prize being a 14K gold necklace designed and donated by David Stern of the Polo Shops. Rosemary Cook was the lucky winner.

Committee members for the Excalibur Extravaganza were Ways and Means Chairman Joan Wargo, Co-Chairs Barbara Fox and Mary Perper, Reservations Chair Colleen Hannifan, Decorations Chairs Nelly Newman and Phyllis Waze, Menu Chair Sally Shutt, and Invitations Chair Bonnie Smith.

Proceeds from all Excalibur Society events are used to assist worthy students achieve their educational goals. Scholarships are awarded annually to traditional and continuing studies students. The Society has also established a $50,000 endowed scholarship fund. ❖

FRONTIERS IN GLOBALIZATION

Sponsored by the Board of Overseers of Lynn University, the "Frontiers in Globalization" Luncheon Lecture Series provides relevant perspectives on contemporary issues. Our first guest was Ambassador Diego C. Asencio, president of Diego C. Asencio and Associates, Inc., and former Ambassador to Colombia and Brazil. Mr. Asencio is President of an international consulting and trading company. He is also a consultant to the Florida International Affairs Commission of which the Governor of Florida is Chairman.

Mr. Asencio served as Ambassador to Brazil from 1983 to 1986. In 1986, he retired from the Senior Foreign Service with the rank of Career Minister. Prior to his nomination as Ambassador to Brazil, he was Assistant Secretary of State for Consular Affairs from 1980 to 1983, and Ambassador to Colombia from 1977 to 1980.

Don Ross and Diego Asencio

Following a meeting with students and faculty, Mr. Asencio joined community business leaders and friends for lunch. His choice of topic was the NAFTA agreement which proved to be quite relevant, since his appearance here was the day Congress voted on the NAFTA agreement. Gearing his discussion toward Florida and NAFTA, Mr. Asencio said that Florida is playing catch-up to profiting from the North American Free Trade Agreement, but should fare well under the Agreement, since in the past six years, Florida has increased exports from $250 million to $500 million.

Featuring well-known experts and business leaders, the "Frontiers in Globalization" Luncheon Lecture Series is underwritten by W.R. Grace & Co.; Comerica Bank & Trust; First Union National Bank of Florida; and IBM Corporation. The next luncheon lecture is scheduled for February 25, 1994, and will feature J.P. Bolduc, CEO of W.R. Grace & Co. For additional information, please contact the Office of Institutional Relations. ♦

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES TWO MAJOR GIFTS

Lynn University is enjoying a period of tremendous growth and great excitement, thanks in no small measure to the many friends and benefactors who have chosen to provide financial support toward the vision that we all share. Recently, President Ross announced the receipt of two special gifts that will enable Lynn to meet several important priorities.

Lynn University trustee, Patrick J. Rooney, presented a gift to establish the Rooney Library at our affiliate institution, the American College, Dublin in Ireland. In accepting the contribution, President Ross noted that "the University is now in a position to begin building a first-class library collection to serve the needs of a growing number of American and international students at our Ireland location."

Mr. Rooney is a long-time resident of south Florida where he has been active in a number of community organizations and initiatives. With interests in both the United States and Ireland, Mr. Rooney cited his "belief in the value of a U.S. education in Ireland as an important tool in building synergies between the two nations."

President Ross also announced the establishment of the Gordon and Mary Henke Wing as part of the $3.2 million Lynn University International Center to be constructed on the campus.

The International Center, which will encompass nearly 25,000 square feet, will incorporate an international administrative suite and lounge, several classrooms, and a first floor public area that will include the Henke Wing, as well as a reception area and a 250 seat auditorium.

Gordon and Mary Henke, formerly of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, have a long history of philanthropy. They have supported a number of projects in Wisconsin as well as south Florida. ♦

Theme Nights in The Christine Room

he "Halloween Theme Night" and the "Victorian Christmas Celebration" were highlights of the Fall semester in The Christine Room. Many of our guests wore masks or dressed in the colors of Halloween which added to the evening's festivities at the Halloween Theme Night.

The "Victorian Christmas Celebration," always a sell-out, was a delightful way to begin the holiday season. Charming Victorian decorations and candlelight cast a warm glow over the dining room. The Lynn University Singers were joined by Coleen Brennan, a Lynn University graduate student, who opened the holiday program. The Lynn University Singers performed a number of Christmas Carols interspersed with Dickens readings from John Pickering, a member of the faculty. A sing-a-long closed an evening of fine dining and pleasant company. ♦

COUNTESS DE HOERNLE AFTERNOON TEAS

The Countess de Hoernle Afternoon Teas have proven to be a lovely way to gather with friends and make new acquaintances.

To inaugurate this third season, Lynn University students prepared a formal Japanese Tea Ceremony. This centuries-old tradition is a delight to watch. Following the tea preparation, the students served the green tea and Japanese sweets to our guests.

A charming addition this season has been our harpist. The soothing music has lent even more elegance to the British and European tradition of Afternoon Tea with the freshness of South Florida ambiance.

The Countess de Hoernle Afternoon Teas are scheduled for the second Tuesday of each month from October through April beginning at three-thirty in the afternoon. ♦

THIRTEENTH

The Thirteenth Annual University Ball was a spectacular success. More than 400 guests attended this first major event held in the de Hoernle Sports and Cultural Center. Cascades of balloons, giant trees, thousands of lights, and flags from around the world transformed the “gym” into an elegant ballroom. The cocktail hour featured international hors d’oeuvres while dinner was typical American fare complete with apple pie topped with a small U.S.A. flag.

The U.S. Marine Corps presented the colors to open the evening’s program. President Ross recognized those previous Ball Chairs present. This year’s Honorary Chairs, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lynn, and the Count and Countess de Hoernle were recognized along with General Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fowler and the Vice-Chairman, Mrs. William Glover. Prior to presenting this year’s Boca Raton Award, President Ross introduced previous recipients who were in attendance. The prestigious Boca Raton Award was presented to Joan Wargo, who was honored for her more than thirty years of volunteer work in the Boca Raton community. Mrs. Wargo is a past president of the Debbie Rand Memorial Service League and continues as an active member. She also serves as First Vice President and Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of Lynn University’s Excalibur Society. Mrs. Wargo gives unselfishly of her time and energy to many organizations and also teaches at the Boca Raton Community Hospital. Following the program, guests danced away the evening to the music of the Alex Donner Orchestra.

The University awards more than $2 million annually to worthy and needy students. Proceeds from the Ball help to underwrite scholarship expenses. The University is already planning next year’s Ball, so mark your calendars for November 19, 1994, and the Fourteenth Annual University Ball. ❖

BASKETBALL ROCKS THE HOUSE

By Dave Geringer, SID

thletics at Lynn University has had a history of being successful.

So it shouldn't be a surprise to anyone that the inaugural editions of the Knights' men's and women's basketball teams stormed out of the starting gate and immediately made their marks in national circles.

Head coaches Dan Olson and Jeff Price got a late start on the recruiting trail. But they more than made up for it, putting together squads that broke quickly from the starting gate. The Knights played their home games at Florida Atlantic University, Pope John Paul II High School, Deerfield Beach High School and Florida International University while the Count and Countess de Hoernle Sports and Cultural Center was being completed. But that didn't stop LU's men from compiling a 4-2 first semester record, while the women went 7-2.

The men's record included a 72-64 victory at Florida Tech in their first game ever, a 103-101 overtime victory over Edward Waters in their first home game, at Deerfield Beach HS, a pair of wins — and the tournament championship — in their first tournament ever, the Food Chief Classic at Florence, South Carolina. The women were successful wherever they played — winning games at FAU against Pembroke State and Southern Indiana in their first two home games, defeating Northwest Missouri State at Deerfield Beach High, trouncing St. Leo at Pope John Paul HS, and defeating Brewton, Parker, which got votes in the NAIA Division I pre-season poll, in the final game before the semester break.

The de Hoernle Center opened December 28th, when Lynn's women routed Michigan-Dearborn. The LU men also were successful in their first venture at de Hoernle, ripping Findlay, ranked ninth in the pre-season NAIA Division I poll. The men followed up that victory with a thrilling, one-point win over second-ranked William Jewell, hung on for a 91-88 win over Hannibal-LaGrange, and soundly defeated Dominican College before beginning play against their in-state rivals.

The women defeated NCAA Division II power Slippery Rock and scored 100 points in victories against Massachusetts, Dartmouth, Flagler and Edward Waters. LU erased three NAIA Division II records in the victory over the Saints — most points (122), most field goals (52) and most field goals by a player in a game (22, by junior center Shander Gary). The win against Flagler was also LU's Southeast Region opener.

SUCCESS

Gary's performance earned her NAIA Division II Player of the Week honors, as well as Southeast Region Player of the Week honors. Gary was also named NAIA Division II Women's Offensive Player of the Week by Don Hansen's Weekly Basketball Gazette. Arteus Sullivan of the men's team made it a clean sweep of regional honors, as he was named Northeast Region Player of the Week. And the Knights were one of the teams not ranked, but receiving votes in the NAIA Division II men's poll.

Since LU is competing in the NAIA without a conference affiliation, the Knights are competing in regions for the right to advance to the NAIA Championships. The men are one of seven teams competing in the Northeast Region, with the automatic bid to the NAIA Tournament riding on a post-season tournament at Holy Family College in Philadelphia. The women are competing in the five-team Southeast Region, with the winner of the post-season tournament at Webber College advancing to the NAIA Tournament. The Knights will try to continue making history in their first season. ♦

SOCCER TEAMS SUCCESSFUL AGAIN

By Dave Geringer, SID

Once again, the 1993 soccer seasons were extremely successful ones for Lynn University.

Both the men's and women's teams finished second nationally. And both teams received a multitude of honors.

The men dominated their opposition all season, winning their first 23 matches. One of the highlights was an almost unbelievable stretch of 965 scoreless minutes. Lynn did not allow a goal from the time Barry scored 23 minutes into the match September 10th until Florida International's Steve Ralston drilled a penalty kick past Knight goalkeeper Joe Schafer in the 89th minute of a 4-1 LU victory at FIU October 13th. During that stretch, Schafer posted seven shutouts and shared two others with Cory Simpson and Ashley Lander as Lynn posted nine consecutive shutout victories.

The FIU match marked the first of two Knight victories against NCAA Division I teams in two tries in 1993. LU defeated Florida Atlantic, 3-1, in the final regular season match at Lynn's McCusker Sports Complex October 27th, setting up LU's march through the playoffs.

Lynn began the playoffs by escaping Nova, 2-1 in overtime at home November 3rd. Richie Hasse converted a penalty kick to give LU the victory. Lynn then downed Flagler, 5-1, for the District Seven championship, then ripped Berry, 10-0, for the regional title.

It was on to San Antonio for the Knights. In the first match at the NAIA Championships, Lynn defeated George Fox, 8-1. A 2-1 victory over Bloomfield and a 3-1 win over Mobile set up the championship match against Sangamon State. The Prairie Stars prevailed in overtime, 4-3, as the Knights were denied in the finals for the second year in a row.

"Obviously, we were disappointed with the final result," said Head Coach Shaun Pendleton. "We have to regain the number one ranking next year, put another season together, and our final goal again will be to win the championship."

The women also cruised through the regular season, posting a 12-2-2 regular season mark that included losses only to NAIA champion Berry and NCAA Division II champion Barry and an undefeated record against NCAA Division I opposition. Goalkeeper Joyce Parson wound up with 10 shutouts, sharing another one with Michelle Bregman, and LU scored 10 or more goals on three occasions.

Lynn began the playoffs with a 7-0 rout of St. Thomas for the District Seven championship, then hosted the four-team Southern Region Championship with a bid to the NAIA Tournament on the line. The Knights blanked Coker, 4-0, then downed William Carey, 5-1, for the title and the right to go to nationals in St. Louis and defend their NAIA championship.

The Knights shut out Wheeling Jesuit, 1-0, in their first match, but trailed Seattle, 1-0, late in the second when Dorte Nielsen struck. The senior LU forward drilled a long shot that bounced in over the head of the goalkeeper to tie the score, then scored the winning goal in overtime to put LU in the finals. The championship match went into overtime, but Berry prevailed, 1-0.

"We were disappointed that we lost, but we're excited that we had the opportunity to play for the national championship," said Head Coach Jim Blankenship. "It's the third consecutive year that we were in the finals, and our kids worked very hard."

At their respective national tournaments, Nethean Gibson was named the Outstanding Offensive Player, and Darren Read the Outstanding Defensive Player for the men, and Dorte Nielsen the Outstanding Offensive Player for the women. Read, Gibson and Hasse of the men's team and Parson, Nielson and Lene Hansen of the women's team were named first team All-Americans. The men led all NAIA teams in shots, goals, goals per game and fewest goals allowed. Schafer led the nation in goals-against average and was tied for the lead in shutouts, and Pendleton was named Area Coach of the Year. It was just another banner year for the Lynn soccer program. ❖

Dr. Marsha Glines, Dean of the School of Education and 1993 Outstanding Teacher, addressed the assembly. Reflecting on teaching and learning, she stated that "a major challenge facing American Society today is how to ensure that all students arrive at college ready to learn ... eager, motivated, with a understanding of how classrooms work, and armed with the requisite language and literary skills. This challenge to families and communities to ensure that students are ready to learn, must be matched by a readiness in college and universities to accept and teach young adults who are not ready to learn." Complimenting the Honors students, she continued, "Those of you who sit before this dais tonight have learned techniques and have developed the cognitive ability to achieve academic success ... you have excelled ... you are our best ... and you are to be heartily congratulated." ❖

HOMEcoming 1993

omecoming Weekend was a great success with beautiful weather and great company. The day could not have been nicer for a cruise on the Intracoastal on the giant catamaran, Sea Breeze.

After the cruise, alumni joined trustees, overseers, faculty, and staff for a "tailgate" party at the soccer field. The women's soccer team won the game which added to the afternoon's pleasure. Saturday evening was left open for alumni to "do their own thing." Following Liturgy on Sunday morning was a delightful brunch in The Christine Room. ♦
